WENDELL WILLKIE PROPOSES CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT AGAINST THIRD TERM AMBITIONS

Greeks Push Into Albania to Cut Italy's Supplies

Italo Base Circled by Attackers

Yugoslavian Dispatches Predict Koritza Will Fall; Italian Attack Is Repulsed

Aid Is Reported

Sketchy Reports Are Given of British Naval Help Last Evening

(By The Associated Press)
Fighting over snow-blanketed mountains, Greek Alpine troops were reported to have driven seven miles into Italian-held Albania today, ringing the Fascist supply base at Koritza and capturing 1,200 Italian prisoners.

In further support of the eight-day-old Greek defense, the British were reported preparing to send army divisions, about 45,000 troops, to combat the Italian invasion.

British and Greek warplanes inflicted heavy casualties, dispatches said, in low-flying attacks on Italian troops massed along the Greek-Albanian border.

A British broadcast said RAF raiders, accompanied by Greek planes, also attacked the Albanian capital, Tirana, and partly destroyed the palace of former King Zog, now being used as an Italian military headquarters.

Dispatches from Yugoslavia said the fall of Koritza, in the northern sector of the 100-mile Balkan war front, was "expected momentarily."

In the southern sector, Greek defenders were said to have repulsed Italian columns in fierce hand-to-hand fighting with bayonets and grenades.

The Greek high command said a heavy Italian attack in the mountains of Epirus province had been routed with the destruction of nine Fascist tanks.

Stefani, the official Italian news agency, acknowledged that Premier Mussolini's legions were meeting stiff Greek resistance in the Ionnina (Janina) region at the southwest end of the front.

Concrete British aid to the Aegean kingdom took a two-fold spurt. Official circles in London confirmed that British troops now have landed on the Greek Isle of Crete, opposite the Italian Dodecanese Islands. The British poured $80,000,000 into Greece's defense coffers.

Sea Battle Reported
British naval assistance in striking at the Italian invasion was also indicated in sketchy reports of a sea battle Sunday evening west of the island of Corfu, at the lower end of the Greek-Albanian frontier.

The Athens radio said that 30 minutes after firing at sea was heard "a large vessel was seen ablaze, steaming northward," toward Italian defense bases—indicating the ship was Italian.

At the same time, British RAF bombers, now presumably operating from Greek bases, caused an hour and 45-minute alarm in Rome—the Italian capital's first alert since July 24—and also attacked Sicily again.

Mussolini's high command said the RAF raiders failed to reach Rome, although the capital's populace was awakened by the fall of air-raid sirens at 3:45 a. m., and that the planes which attempted to bomb Naples were met by a barrage of anti-aircraft fire, "forcing them to drop their bombs in the open countryside."

In Athens, authoritative quarters summed up the week-old conflict as "developing satisfactorily," and the semi-official Greek news agency asserted Italian claims of having penetrated the Greek defense line were "a tissue of scurrilous lies."

Briefest Mention Only
The Italian high command again gave only the briefest mention to Balkan war, asserting that five "air" planes were shot down in a night fight over Salonika.

Germany was reported sending thousands of her crack mechanized infantry troops into Rumania, perhaps for a southward thrust against Greece and Turkey to aid ally's slow-moving offensive from Albania.

The President is scheduled to arrive in Kingston at 3:40 o'clock this afternoon for a short talk at Academy Park.

Large Registration Has Party Leaders Asking for Reason

Election Forecasters Think About 50 Millions Out of About 61 Millions May Cost Votes

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—Record-smashing registrations which may qualify more than 60,000,000 persons to vote tomorrow have the politicians guessing as to how these new voters will mark their ballots.

Allowing for the same ratio of stay-at-homes as in former general elections, it is estimated that roughly 50,000,000 may cast votes tomorrow. In round numbers, 45,000,000 out of 55,000,000 eligibles voted in 1936, when President Roosevelt had a plurality of almost 11,000,000.

Hitler's Reported Peace Offensive May Signify Fuehrer Knows He Can't Smash Great Britain

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Reports in Washington and London that Herr Hitler is preparing a fresh peace offensive may be apocryphal (Berlin denies them) but still are important as emphasizing that the war has passed the possibility of peace by agreement, barring some strange and wholly unexpected development.

Hard as it is to say, it's difficult to see how the conflict can be settled excepting by the total defeat of one side or the other. Europe just isn't big enough to hold both Adolf Hitler and Britain.

Should it prove to be true that the fuhrer is indeed preparing peace terms it would, of course, be significant as indicating that he no longer feels confident he can smash England. That would be his reason for stopping now.

Kingston Will Not Get Airport, Is Official Report

Simson and Others Write Letters to Mayor Saying Kingston Not Listed in Federal Plan

Mayor Heiselman has been for some months with the military authorities in Washington, urging the site which the city surveyed several years ago for an airport. This site is situated about one mile north of Kingston on 9-W and would involve taking part of the Pratt Boice farm at Lake Katrine.

The mayor has received official word from the secretary of war and the Department of Commerce which intimates that Kingston is not considered strategically suitable for an airport as part of the national defense system.

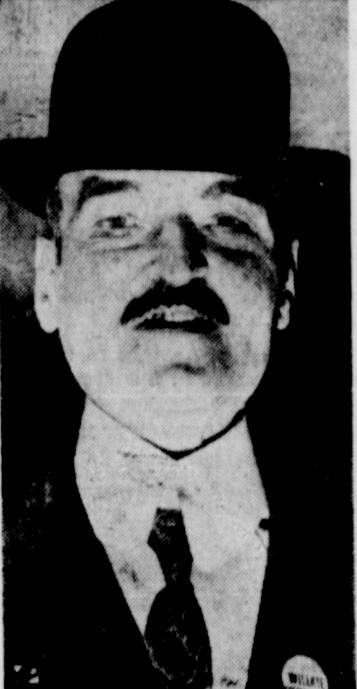

Mayor Heiselman stated that he had attempted to enlist the support of Mayor LaGuardia, of New York, who seemed to be able to obtain huge grants of federal money for New York city projects, on the ground that the huge water projects of the city of New York, now in existence or now under construction, were a short flying time from Kingston, and at the New York mayor's suggestion had increased the length of the proposed airport runways from 2,500 and 3,500 feet, to 3,500 and 4,500 feet, because LaGuardia claimed the smaller runways, which were on the city's original design, were too short to handle a modern military airplane.

In commenting upon the unfavorable news from Washington, Mayor Heiselman said that as far as he was concerned he would abide by it, because he favored the selection of airports and other implements of national defense because of their strategic value and by a board of military experts rather than by political pressure.

Seized at Rally

Dr. Union S. Ward, 78-year-old physician has convinced authorities he meant no harm when he moved toward Wendell Willkie Saturday night at Madison Square Garden with a loaded gun in his pocket. The aged man, who wore a large Willkie button when arrested, was released in $500 bail on a charge of violating the Sullivan anti-firearms law yesterday. Bail was provided by a Republican district leader who said he had given Dr. Ward tickets for the Willkie rally. Assistant District Attorney Jacob Rosenblum said police were satisfied the man was harmless.

Ulster's Leaders Expect Big G.O.P. Victory Tomorrow

With a normal Republican majority in Ulster county of between nine and ten thousand, local Republican leaders claimed today that Wendell L. Willkie will carry the county Tuesday by a plurality of from 11,000 to 12,000 votes and that the entire county Republican ticket will be swept into office by an overwhelming vote.

Capital Is Busy With Complicated Foreign Situation

Secrecy Surrounding U. S. Naval Operations Is One of Big Items; Parley Is Listed

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—The secrecy shrouding American naval operations in the Caribbean, reports of an impending German "peace offensive," and a scheduled conference between Secretary of State Hull and the French ambassador all combined today to keep the complicated international situation to the fore, despite keen official interest in the election.

The conference between Secretary Hull and Gaston Henry-Haye, the French ambassador, was expected to result in at least some clarification of the picture, for the belief was that the French ambassador would present Marshal Philippe Petain's reply to President Roosevelt's recent message.

The contents of the President's communication were not disclosed, but informed officials had the impression that it dealt with the question of French "collaboration" with Germany, and possible aspects of that "collaboration" which might affect disposition of French colonies in the new world.

Whether there was any link between U. S. naval activity in the Caribbean and the future of French possessions in that area remained a mystery.

Whether the reports of a new German peace effort had any connection with previous reports of a Franco-German agreement could not be learned. The state department said it had heard a "rumor" that Chancellor Hitler planned an address on peace to the German people, but lacked official confirmation.

Candidate To Make 3 Radio Talks

Republican Nominee Will Take Immediate Step 'When Elected' to Presidency

Repeats Pledge

Has No Understandings Except Those to Keep Democracy

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—On the eve of the first presidential election in which a third-term bid has been made, Wendell L. Willkie proposed today a constitutional amendment limiting the service of any president to eight years or less.

Before making three last minute radio appeals to the American voters, the Republican presidential nominee said in a statement that if the "common law against a third term be repealed," there would be no law to restrain President Roosevelt "or any of his successors, elected, hereditary or appointed, from any indefinite number of terms."

"When elected," Willkie said, "in order to prevent any subsequent demonstrations of such ambitious views, in my first message to Congress I shall recommend that they submit a constitutional amendment limiting the time any one president may serve to eight years or less."

Repeats Declaration
In another statement calling on all voters to take part in tomorrow's election, Willkie reiterated a declaration made to the Republican national convention and to Saturday night's Madison Square Garden rally.

"I stand before you without a single pledge, promise, or understanding of any kind," he said, "except for the advancement of your cause and the preservation of American democracy."

This assertion was made, he said, "despite last minute rumors which counsels of desperation spread about me to mislead voters."

"I have neither offered to nor discussed with any person any appointment to any cabinet position or any other position," he added. "And I have never authorized anyone else to do so."

Voting Is Only Way
"To show the world the force and power of the free ballot in a democracy dedicated to peace and progress."

"Voting is the only way our citizens have to control their government," he said. "Failure to vote is not only an abdication of the high privilege of American citizenship, but is an acquiescence in whatever loss of liberty may come, if the power of the bosses be not out-voted...."

"Voters must remember that their vote is secret and may not be learned by any man. They can vote as they please, regardless of the party in which they may be registered."

Willkie is scheduled for three radio broadcasts today. The first, at 3:15 p. m. (EST) over CBS, is sponsored by the Associated Willkie Clubs of America on the Kathleen Norris program.

Over the same network, the nominee will join his running mate, Sen. Charles L. McNary of Oregon and Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., Republican national chairman, in a program from 10:15 to 11 p. m. (EST).

He will close his campaign in a program by the Associated Willkie Clubs over all four major radio networks from midnight to 1 a. m. (E.S.T.). This program will originate from a Broadway theatre (Ritz).

Holds Conferences
The Republican candidate, after attending church services with his family, spent Sunday afternoon evening at his campaign offices in the Hotel Commodore conferring with associates and going over final campaign arrangements.

His statement suggesting a limited service in the presidency said President Roosevelt's Saturday night speech "reminded me of the old saying that an acre of performance is worth a whole land of promise."

"He echoed my very strenuous pleas for unity," Willkie said, "but the echo came back thin and garbled by the interference of nearly eight years of discrepancy between his promise and his performance."

Airline Carrying 10 Persons Vanishes in Utah Snowstorm

Airplane Was Due From San Francisco Early Today; Search Is Made in Uplands

Salt Lake City, Nov. 4 (AP)—A missing United Airlines plane with 10 aboard was located today on the ground in the mountain country north of centerville, Utah.

Centerville lies at the foot of the towering Wasatch mountains. The plane was sighted by searching fliers.

They radioed to the Salt Lake airport that the plane did not appear to be in bad condition, the pilot, Captain Howard Fey, seemingly having attempted a forced landing.

The transport disappeared early this morning during a driving snowstorm.

Reported Missing
Salt Lake City, Nov. 4 (AP)—An airliner carrying seven passengers and a crew of three vanished today after arriving over the Salt Lake airport at 4:40 a. m. (Mountain Standard Time.)

The United Airlines plane left San Francisco at 10:30 p. m. (MST) last night and was due in Salt Lake City at 3:39 a. m.

The big plane approached the airport but was unable to land because of a heavy snowstorm.

Captain Howard Fey reported he was following the radio beam as he approached the field.

Field headquarters here talked with the crew and the plane apparently began circling high overhead to await a break in the weather.

Contact Attempts Fail
Efforts to contact the plane by radio failed.

Stanley Halberg, district traffic manager for UAL, said the plane carried enough gasoline to keep it aloft at least until 9 a. m.

He expressed hope the plane had made an emergency landing somewhere on the plains west of Utah's capital.

East of the city the Wasatch mountains tower to 12,000 feet. They were shrouded by a steady snow.

One searching plane soared along the Wasatch range north of Salt Lake City and in the vicinity of Layton, about 25 miles north of here. It was from that area Captain Fey sent his 4:40 a. m. message.

The plane approached Salt Lake City, then flew north, circled and headed back toward the airport. Halberg explained this maneuver was necessary because of wind conditions.

Officials, although still hopeful, said it was possible that the craft crashed in the mountains east of Layton while it was turning preparatory to winging back toward Salt Lake City.

Nearly a foot of snow lay in the mountains. The storm continued intermittently this morning.

Financial and Commercial

Gains Made in Market Last Week

Industrials, Rails, Utilities Advanced on Trading Last Week

The market moved upward moderately Saturday, with volume of 466,860 shares best for a Saturday since mid-June. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gained 4½ point for the day, to close at 134.44 and utilities advanced 15 to 23.44. Rails were off slightly, 10 point, to 29.22.

The move Saturday closed one of the best weeks the market has had in some time, with the industrial average gaining 2.57 points for the week, rails .59 and utilities .92.

Although some commentators see the market stimulated during the week by the trend of the political campaign, all election predictions stress the uncertainty of the outlook. Great selectivity marked the course of stock prices as a long list of securities of companies which have been turning out favorable earnings reports were in demand, while others, whose net income has been more severely affected by the heavy increase in taxes lost ground. Steel, railroad equipment and some special issues have shown extraordinary strength of late, but it has been to a large degree counterbalanced by sluggishness in other issues.

It is stated that Great Britain is considering the erection in this country of a 28-way ship assembly plant for new construction of standardized cargo vessels to offset the large losses sustained by its merchant marine during the war. It is estimated that the new plant will cost as much as $10,000,000, while total expenditures will run into the hundreds of millions, depending upon the length of the war. The plant, as proposed, would be capable of turning out 50 cargo carriers of 8,000 to 10,000 deadweight capacity in the first year of operation and 100 a year thereafter.

A number of auto makers report backlogs at record highs, with unfilled orders still rising. November output is indicated at 450,000 cars, against a peak of 409,000 in November 1935.

The 12 Regional Banks of the Federal Reserve system are reported to have been selling U. S. government securities steadily for several months past. Total holdings show a drop from $2,784,896,000 on September 27, 1939, to $2,382,800,000 at latest report. For a long time the Reserve Banks were the sole support of the government bond market.

Stated that foreign buyers are now taking out four tons of new steel for every ton of scrap. The spread has been widened since October 15, when restrictions were imposed on some exports of scrap. Foreign buyers took 965,444 tons of finished material in September.

The Japanese, prohibited from taking out scrap, have been placing orders for tonnages of plates for warships, merchant vessels and special steels for refinery and other industrial processes.

Commonwealth & Southern led the list of most active stocks in Saturday's short session, but closed unchanged at 1½ in turnover of 17,000 shares. U. S. Steel, second on the list, also closed unchanged at 69½.

Predicts Willkie Victory
Prediction that Wendell L. Willkie will carry New York state by "upwards of a quarter of a million votes, with the state ticket rolling up an equal plurality," was contained in a joint statement issued last (Sunday) night by Edwin F. New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—Leading stocks turned downward in today's market after a mild early advance failed to attract followers.

Dealings, fast in the forenoon, flattened out appreciably as prices skidded. Losses, running to 2 points or so at the worst, were reduced near the final hour and, here and there, slight gains were to be seen. Transfers were at the rate of about 1,000,000 shares.

Bonds and commodities, for the most part, held to a narrow range. Moderate support was given at times to such stocks as Sperry, Woolworth, Union Carbide, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, and Johns-Manville.

Lower were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott, Montgomery Ward, N. Y. Central, North American, du Pont, U. S. Gypsum and J. I. Case.

In the curb modest plus marks were tacked on Electric Bond & Share, Humble Oil, Cities Service, American Light & Traction and Niagara Hudson Power. Occasional losers included Bell Aircraft, Lake Shore, International Petroleum and Sherwin Williams.

Kingston Will Not Get Airport, Is Official Report

Kingston, New York, for the development of their airport and endorsing the proposed work as a suitable development in the national defense program.

The recent appropriation of $40,000,000 provided by Congress for the construction of public airports for national defense must be expended to meet immediate and urgent requirements and it would appear unlikely that the airport at Kingston could be included in the present program.

You may be assured, however, that the application now on file from Kingston, New York, will receive careful consideration in the event the program is extended.

Sincerely,
DONALD H. CONNOLLY,
Administrator of Civil Aeronautics
DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Washington

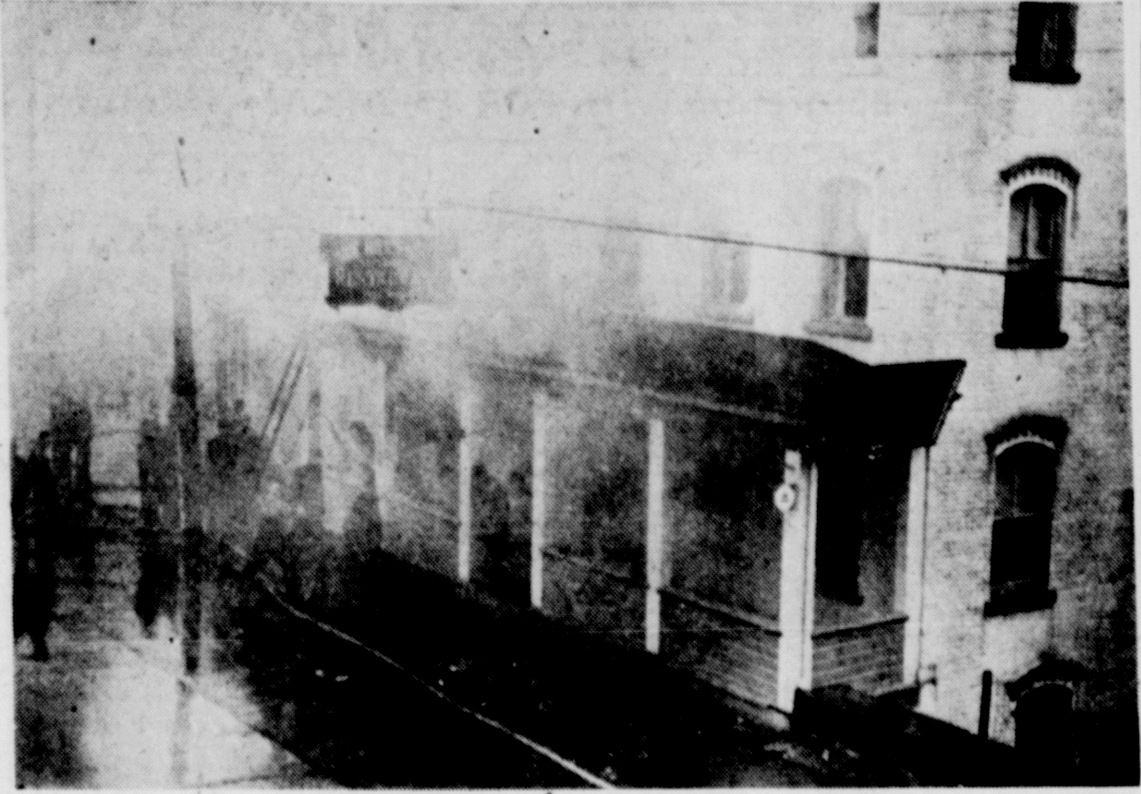

October 25, 1940
Honorable Conrad J. Heiselman,
Mayor of the City of Kingston,
Kingston, New York.
My dear Mr. Mayor:

The Civil Aeronautics Administration is in receipt of your letter of October 21st, in which you urge that the construction of an airport at Kingston, New York, be included in the program to be undertaken with the appropriation of $40,000,000 recently made available by the Congress.

The legislation authorizing this appropriation requires that the projects included in the program be approved as necessary for national defense by a board composed of the secretaries of war, navy and commerce. In order that the full intent of this provision may be met, priority must be given to those projects deemed most essential in the immediate defense requirements.

I regret to advise you that it would not appear likely that these requirements will permit the inclusion of an airport at Kingston in the immediate construction program.

Please be assured that this project will receive considered attention if the program should be extended at a later date.

ect will receive considered attention if the program should be extended at a later date.

Sincerely,

WAR DEPARTMENT

WD 580.82
Kingston, New York
(10-9-40) M

October 25, 1940
Honorable Conrad J. Heiselman,
Mayor of Kingston,
Kingston, New York
Dear Mayor Heiselman:

In further reply to your letter of October 9, 1940, concerning a tract of land in the vicinity of Kingston which could be purchased by the War Department for airport development, it is not anticipated that this project will be undertaken in the present expansion program.

The War Department has found it advisable to develop and enlarge landing fields already in existence in order that the airport requirements of the present air force might be met with the least possible delay. It was not considered that the needs of national defense could afford the time required for the complete construction of the airports needed in the various strategic areas. Increasing the capacity of existing airports met this requirement with less loss of time.

The interest in national defense which prompted your offer of an available site is greatly appreciated and the location and other data will be made a matter of record with a view to its consideration in the future should additional expansion require the construction of an airport in this area.

Yours very truly,
HENRY L. STIMSON,
Secretary of War.

Italian airmen continued to pound at Salonika, the Greek port at the north end of the Aegean Sea. Aided by Britain, Greece pitted her small air force against Italy to hammer at Fascist troop concentrations and supply depots along the Albanian frontier.

counted is why registrations are breaking all-time records in the large cities and even in many smaller towns. All down the line, but particularly in New York, Pennsylvania, and California, voters in increasing numbers have signified their intention of exercising their historic right.

Normal population gains and more persons reaching voting age explain the increases in some instances, but the intensity of the campaign and unusual interest in issues appear to account for others.

For example, women voters are responsible for approximately 45 per cent of the 3,388,741 registered in New York city, where the total registration is up 488,557 over 1936.

Upstate New York, normally Republican, has 3,571,376 registrants, a 253,226 gain over four years ago. The state as a whole has registered 6,960,117, an increase of 741,783 over 1936.

The township of Somers, near New York city, has 2,470 registrants, or 69 more than the population given it by the census bureau as of April 1. Democratic leaders attributed the rise to a gain in population since the census was taken.

increase in registration. With the extension of time in voting it will be much later in the night before the election returns from the city and county are in and compiled.

This year Ulster County's registration of 59,516 is the largest in the county's history, exceeding by 3,620 the registration in 1936. A glance through the records discloses that Herbert Hoover in November, 1932, carried Ulster county by approximately 3,000, while Governor Landon in 1936 carried the county by approximately 6,000.

Republican leaders count on the campaign waged by Wendell L. Willkie for president this year to give him double the plurality given Governor Landon in the last presidential election in 1936.

From the Republican viewpoint the heavy registration this year is indicative that voters have decided that after eight futile years to restore prosperity that it was time for a change in leadership.

Republican leaders believe that all of the county ticket will be swept into office by pluralities of from six to 12,000 and say that this is a conservative estimate.

Red Cross to Help Typhoon-Stricken Guam Population

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—The navy and the Red Cross made available today a total of $35,000 for relief and reconstruction on the typhoon-swept island of Guam, American naval outpost in the Pacific.

An initial emergency outlay of $25,000 was authorized by the navy, and a $10,000 relief fund was granted by the Red Cross.

Governor George J. McMillan estimated that the storm which struck the island Saturday did $365,500 damage to naval property, $50,000 damage to property of the island government and $1,200,000 damage to private property.

Governor McMillan, a captain in the navy, appealed to the Red Cross for $15,000 to relieve distress in the civil population. The Red Cross cabled $10,000 and asked further reports on the damage.

The governor cabled the navy department that damage to the naval station consisted principally of roofs being blown off and interiors soaked with rain.

"Panair Hotel wrecked," his latest report said. "Hangar buildings collapsed and complete wreck. 75 per cent of natives homeless but rehabilitation work has started. Communication with southern end of island not yet established." Available information indicated no fatalities among either the civil or military population, he said.

Keep A Qualified Judge On The Bench

Read what the Kingston Daily Freeman said of Judge Cook at the time of his appointment as County Judge of Ulster County:

"During the many years that Judge Cook has been active in the practice of law he has established an enviable reputation as a trial lawyer, and appeared in many of the most important and outstanding law suits in Supreme, County and Surrogate's Court in Ulster County.

"Judge Cook follows in the footsteps of a long line of outstanding lawyers of Ulster County who have occupied the county court bench. His sound knowledge of law, and his many years of practice as a trial lawyer fit him for the duties to which he has been assigned.

"For many years Judge Cook has been one of the outstanding members of the Ulster County Bar and his elevation to the Bench will meet with the approval not only of those who appear in court but with the members of the legal fraternity who will try the cases brought to his attention."

These are the reasons why Judge Cook should be continued on the Bench.

UP TO THE VOTERS

The eve of election finds most voters with minds fully made up how they will vote tomorrow in the most important election in our history. Issues and candidates have been discussed for months, statements have been published from the leading candidates and prominent supporters and the radio has borne the speeches. The voters will have their turn tomorrow when they cast their ballots. No other engagement can be more important and it is hoped that every registered voter will cast his ballot.

A momentous decision must be rendered by the electorate. A decision which may have far-reaching consequences in the national history. For the first time in our history the voters of this country must pass on the question of a third term for the President.

George Washington declined renomination in 1796. This precedent was followed by Madison, Jefferson, Jackson and all the others who have been President to this day. We have a chance now to pass along to our children these same principles that our thoughtful fathers did not fail to pass to us—the right of the people to choose those who make and enforce their laws, strict limitation of the extent and duration of executive power and the protection of fundamental human rights from every agency of government.

The doctrine of one man's indispensability is a new doctrine for this country. It is a doctrine which less scrupulous men in Europe have used to root themselves in power. Every dictatorship that has been established maintains the appearance of legality in the country in which it exists. Do we want to change our form of government? We will answer this question tomorrow, when we will have the opportunity of voting for the preservation of our democratic government, thereby crushing the New Deal doctrine of one-man government.

We can give the mandate to preserve Democracy here by voting for Wendell L. Willkie and Charles L. McNary, the Republican candidates for the offices of President and Vice President respectively.

A first term for Mr. Willkie is the American way; a third term for Mr. Roosevelt is the way of the New Deal—one-man government.

A vote for Mr. Willkie means a vote for national unity and national unity is preserved in a nation where people preserve the control of government in their own hands and where the powers of the various departments of the government are so checked and balanced that no department, either executive, legislative or judicial can acquire and exercise excessive power.

A vote for the Republican candidate will be a vote to stop the fostering of class conflict in our country.

A vote for Mr. Willkie will be a vote for the termination of the undemocratic doctrine of government by executive order.

A vote for a new Chief Executive will be a vote to end the concentration of power in one man. And on this issue President Woodrow Wilson had this to say:

"The history of liberty is a history of the limitation of governmental power, not the increase of it. When we resist, therefore, the concentration of power, we are resisting the processes of death, because concentration of power is what always precedes the destruction of human liberties."

To vote no third term for any man pull lever down over the name of Wendell L. Willkie in Row A.

FAILING CIVILIZATION

Learning has failed, says Dr. Edwin S. Burdell, director of Cooper Union, in his annual report. "There was probably never a time in the world's history when there was so much learning and so little wisdom, when there was so much information, so many techniques and skills, and so little use made of them for the common good."

Many thoughtful people must be thinking lately along the same line, as they see man's mastery over nature used to destroy man himself. A generation or two like the present, ent, with power and knowledge used increasingly for predatory war, might kill off the ablest and best of mankind and return the human race to savagery.

"Society itself must exercise the controls," says Dr. Burdell, "and the will to make science the servant of man must proceed from an inner righteousness and from a spiritual enlightenment of society as a whole. Science and research should stand for more than inventions and discoveries."

The fault is not in these great inventions that are used perversely against the interests of mankind. The fault is in man himself. Evidently he isn't good enough—or not enough of us are good enough—to be trusted with the powers now available. And it can't be only Hitler and Mussolini and Stalin who are responsible for all this wholesale devilry and barren use of human powers. The present generation is not wise enough, not friendly enough, not generous enough, to be trusted with the powers at hand for its use.

If science cannot save us, many people think, religion might. Perhaps what the world needs, far more than weapons, is a great spiritual revival.

It seems to take almost as many shoes for soldiers as it does for ten-year-old boys.

Dictators are able men who don't know where to stop.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)
CHOOSING FOODS IN FEEDING A NATION.

There has never been a time in history when the quality of the food eaten by nations has received the attention now given by governments throughout the world. There have been times when there have been shortages in the amount of food but today the matter of the foods necessary for man's health is considered not only from the standpoint of proteins, starches, and fats, but also to the same degree from the standpoint of minerals and vitamins. Even this is not all because foods that individuals like, or that make them happy and contented must be included in the government's food scheme.

The Ministry of Foods in Great Britain, in addition to giving of government funds to enable poor people to get supplies of meat, bacon, bread and milk below cost, has arranged for the fortifying or strengthening of white bread which, while preferred by the majority of the people, is not quite as nourishing as whole meal bread owing to some loss of vitamins and minerals in its manufacture. To overcome this loss of vitamins and minerals, the government fortified or strengthened the white bread by adding vitamin B<sub>1</sub> and also a small quantity of lime (calcium).

For people, living where there are plenty of fruits, vegetables, and dairy products, eating whole wheat bread or eating white bread fortified by vitamin B<sub>1</sub> is unnecessary, and they can thus enjoy the white bread which is more pleasing and satisfying to their appetite. When fruits, vegetables and dairy products are not in abundance, whole wheat bread and "fortified" white bread should be eaten.

Research physicians and dietitians have known for years that foods that please the eye, or arouse memories of previous enjoyment cause a flow of the digestive juices before these foods are eaten and these foods are thus more easily and more completely digested.

These British food experts are making sure of a good meat supply for the people. Meat makes people happy aside from its food value.

Thus the government has to consider the human man who might get all the vitamins he required from a diet of vegetables, whole meal bread, milk and cheese, but would be most unhappy.

Dr. H. S. Ingraham Will Be Speaker At K. of C. Session

In co-operation with the New York State Department of Health's program of disease prevention, the lecturer's committee of the Knights of Columbus, Kingston Council, No. 275, will present Dr. Nollis S. Ingraham, district state health officer, as the featured speaker at tonight's meeting in the council home.

Dr. Ingraham, a leading authority in state health circles, will supervise the showing of a series of informative hygienic movie shorts. Dealing with the topics of syphilis, and its symptoms, rages and control, and the prevention of diphtheria, three reels entitled "On Guard," "With These Weapons" and "Moving X-rays" will be shown.

In addition to the sound pictures describing the New York State Department of Health's drive on venereal diseases in recent years, Dr. Ingraham will exhibit a recently released sound movie short on "Moving X-rays." This feature will be accompanied by authoritative verbal discussions by the district state health officer.

Decidedly appropriate, in view of the recent formation of the council's blood donor group, tonight's interesting program will serve to emphasize the value of medical knowledge to the council members.

Kingston Council, in presenting Dr. Ingraham to the membership this evening as guest speaker, is stressing the recent national movement of the order to be informed on topics of vital interest. Co-operating fully with all state, local and federal health agencies, Lecturer A. J. Weierich urges a large attendance.

In accordance with the custom of former campaigns, Grand Knight William A. Kelly in conjunction with the lecturer's committee will stage the annual open house night Tuesday, November 5. Arrangements have been made to secure election returns on the presidential, state and local campaigns.

Lecturer Weierich has arranged for the traditional refreshment of "old fashioned cider and crullers."

Club President Regrets 'Politics'

Miss Hull Says Women More Sorry Than Public

259 Smith Avenue, Kingston, New York
November 3, 1941.

To the Editor of the Kingston Daily Freeman:

Dear Sir:

Will you kindly publish the following statement?

As president of the "Kingston College Women's Club," I deeply regret the partisan nature of our lecture on October 30th. I believe that I am expressing the feeling of most of the members, regardless of their political affiliation. We had no intention of promoting a political campaign.

In fairness to the club, I wish to state that we had received written assurance from General Johnson's representative that the lecture would be non-partisan in character, and we expected that agreement would be kept. We are more sorry than our patrons that it was not.

Respectfully yours,
ETHEL M. HULL.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington, Nov. 4.—When you are looking back on the Presidential campaign and sitting out the oddities for your memory book, see if you can find things to match these Presidential oddities from ancient history:

John Scott Harrison was both father and son of Presidents, the father of Benjamin and the son of William Henry. Martin Van Buren was the first of the Presidents who was not born a British subject. Virginia still is the "mother of Presidents." Her native sons who have risen to the highest office are Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, William Henry Harrison, Taylor, Tyler and Wilson. Mrs. Victoria Claflin Woodhull was nominated for the Presidency in 1872. Al-most one-third of the men who have been elected chief executives have been slaveholders: Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Tyler, Polk, Taylor, Johnson and Grant.

William Henry Harrison and Zachary Taylor are the only Presidents who have died in the White House. The elections of Jefferson, John Quincy Adams and Rutherford B. Hayes all were decided in Congress. Lincoln, the anti-slavery President, was born in Dixie (what is now Larue county, Kentucky) while his chief political opponent, Stephen A. Douglas, was a son of the north, born in Vermont.

The Shortest Term

William Henry Harrison was President exactly one month. In Missouri, they claim that R. Atchison, senator from that state, should be listed as one of the Presidents. Polk's term expired March 3 and Zachary Taylor was not inaugurated until March 5, 1849; there was no Vice-President and as president Polk received only $25,000 salary for his entire first term, after which the salary was raised to $25,000 a year, which is the same amount as the present Presidential expense fund, the salary having been raised to $75,000.

President Roosevelt's first term was 41 days shorter than that of any other President since Washington who served a full term. Because of the "Lame Duck" amendment which showed the inauguration date from March 4 to January 20. In Monroe's second term, he received all but one of the votes of the electoral college. Neither Lincoln nor Wilson, in their first terms, received a majority of the popular vote of the country.

Taft Got Two States

President Johnson, in his early days, was a literate tailor. William Howard Taft carried only two states when he ran against Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt, Utah and Vermont. William Rufus King, Franklin Pierce's vice-president, was the only one ever to take the oath of office outside the United States and the only vice-president who never was in Washington after his election; he took the oath of office in Cuba, where he had gone for his health and died six weeks later after returning to his Alabama plantation.

Both North and South Carolina claim the birth place of Andrew Jackson. The first national party convention wasn't held until 1831, when the Anti-Masonic party met in Baltimore. Vice-presidents originally were the men who received the second largest number of votes for President. Since June, 1924, has an Indian been eligible for the Presidency. Elbridge Gerry, who, as Madison's vice-president, presided over

By JOHN SELBY

"TRUMPET IN THE WILDERNESS" by Robert S. Harper.

In the city room of the Ohio State Journal in Columbus, O., a man named Robert S. Harper sits five nights a week, very busy indeed. He is the city editor, and city editors are always busy.

But when he isn't working Mr. Harper has history on his mind and particularly the history of Ohio. This hobby has produced a book called "Trumpet in the Wilderness" which doubtless will be looked at wonderingly by those who believe the odd conceit that newspapermen never write the books they project. The idea is a libel, as anybody can prove by checking off any book list, the volumes credited to practicing newsmen.

Mr. Harper's book is a historical novel in which the War of 1812 is the first among American wars; most of us know even less about it than about the Mexican squabble 30 years later. And it is Mr. Harper's good luck that the events in and around Ohio are among the most stirring and (excepting Perry's classic naval victory) the least known in connection with it all. The march north of the Ohio militia, backing its way through virgin forest at the rate of 10 miles a day, is an American epic. The treachery of General Hull, as Mr. Harper describes it, is material for a tragic drama. Governor Meigs of Ohio turns out to be one of our national heroes, although most of us never heard of him. And so on.

Mr. Harper's familiarity with the events of his story doubtless came from the dusty files of some public library and even more remote caches. But he obviously picked up his knowledge of the setting firsthand, and he has been very successful at putting it on paper. An attentive reader could almost trace Juhl Johnson's course by the author's landmarks, even today.

Today in the Campaign

Opinions of Editors Are Offered as Having Important Bearing Upon National Election and It Looks Like Willkie

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1940)

Washington, Nov. 4.—When 1,100 editors out of 1,300 participate in a poll and each without consulting the other gives an appraisal of how the particular states they respectively know well are likely to go in the presidential election, it is as nearly a composite judgment of editor opinion as can be obtained in advance of Election Day.

Each editor was asked to check whether his state was "sure" or "leaning" toward Roosevelt or Willkie. In other words, there were four places to be checked on the ballot. Editors were asked their opinion of only their own states and the tabulation covers the 37 states outside the solid south. The result follows:

Roosevelt Willkie
Sure Leaning Sure Leaning
Arizona ..... 3 2 .. 21
California ..... 3 2 .. 21
Colorado ..... 3 2 .. 21
Connecticut ..... 2 1 .. 11
Delaware ..... 2 1 .. 11
Idaho ..... 1 5 .. 4
Illinois ..... 4 12 24 35
Indiana ..... 2 8 37 30
Iowa ..... 1 25 12
Kansas ..... .. 40 6
Kentucky ..... 14 5 1 ..
Maine ..... .. 6 1
Maryland ..... 1 25 .. 19
Massachusetts ..... 4 15 26
Michigan ..... 6 9 11
Missouri ..... 12 21 .. 10
Montana ..... 8 3 .. 2
Nebraska ..... 1 13 5
Nevada ..... 7 .. ..
New Hampshire ..... 1 4 3
New Jersey ..... 3 6 1 14
New Mexico ..... 11 2 .. 1
New York ..... 3 12 9 39
North Dakota ..... .. 3 6
Ohio ..... 1 13 14 47
Oklahoma ..... 3 1 4 11
Oregon ..... 1 4 11
Pennsylvania ..... 3 5 38 45
Rhode Island ..... 2 1 2
South Dakota ..... N 14 1
Utah ..... 3 1 .. ..

It is significant that a large number of editors do not concede Roosevelt such states as California with 22 electoral votes, or Oklahoma, with 11. Similarly, later reports received over the telephone from editors in Maryland since the foregoing poll was made in the forepart of the week of Oct. 28th, give the impression that Maryland with 8 votes cannot be considered "sure" for Roosevelt.

Examining the poll and their accompanying letters state by state it was apparent, too, that editors did not make their predictions on the basis of what candidates they themselves are supporting, so that the consensus above, which was obtained confidentially, really represents a fair appraisal of the 1940 pre-election situation. Willkie Group Chairman Is Askeance at Reds on Federal Payrolls

Harry W. Colmery, Chairman, Willkie War Veterans National Committee has issued the following statement:

Most Americans know what Communism is. It is a form of government which takes every cherished possession from an individual and centers all power and influence in the State.

Religion is kicked out the window, freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and freedom of the press are denied. The State owns all property, business, industry, and even homes. The citizens are slaves of a dictator.

With this knowledge it seems incredible that the President of the United States would permit more than 2,000 employees to be placed on the Federal pay-roll in Washington, who are either avowed Communists or sympathetic with the principles of Communism, and when this matter is called to his attention by a Congressional Committee, he does nothing about it.

More than four million men donned the uniform of their country and entered the World War. They were told that they were going to have a part in a war to end all wars; that they were going into a crusade to make the world safe for Democracy; and that their efforts would save civilization itself.

More than 50,000 of these brave patriotic men lost their lives on the battlefields of France; other thousands suffered severe injuries; and other thousands contracted diseases that took their lives or incapacitated them. Now we see the sorry spectacle of a President of this nation, (whose men fought to defend its ideals and its principles) employing avowed Communists who are working day and night to change the system of government our ancestors gave their lives to establish.

A Congressional Committee under Martin Dies, a Democratic Congressman, has unearthed facts which are astounding. When Mr. Dies released a list of five hundred and sixty-three Communists who were on the pay-roll in Washington, he was denounced by the President.

A few days ago, Representative Dies' new book was published, entitled: "The Trojan Horse or America." In it he says: "When we reflect that the Communist Party is nothing more nor less than a foreign-controlled conspiracy, aimed at the destruction of our form of government, the story of Stalin's infiltration into official Washington must be viewed in its true light as one of the major political scandals of American history."

Mr. Dies further says: "The first lady of the land has been one of the most valuable assets which the Communist Party have possessed due to the immense prestige which her sponsorship has conferred upon them."

The WPA, Dies said, "was the greatest financial boon which ever came to the Communists in the United States."

Mr. Dies places the responsibility on Mr. Roosevelt when he says: "The President cannot supply the leadership on which our National security rests until he inaugurates thorough and genuine house-cleaning in the government service. This is the plain truth and to deny or avoid it may prove fatal in the end. The President must surely realize by this time his left-wing followers in the government are the fountain head of subversive activities."

It is time for American citizens, and especially for us who had an active part in the World War, to demand that all of the Reds, Radicals and Pinks be taken off the Federal pay-roll. This can be most effectively accomplished by electing Wendell Willkie on November 5.

Veteran Director To Head Y.M.C.A.

Man Who Served 26 Years to Be New Leader

EUGENE BARNETT

The 2,000,000 boys and young men who compose the Y. M. C. A. of the United States today have a new national leader who knows the problems of youth throughout the world as do few other men.

He is Eugene Barnett, veteran of 26 years of service with the Y. M. C. A. in China, and since 1937 the director of the World Service program of the North American Y. M. C. A.'s. Barnett will take office January 1, succeeding John E.

Manley, national general secretary for eight years.

Going to China in 1913, Barnett founded the Hangchow Y. M. C. A. From 1921 until 1937, he served on the staff of the organization's National Committee in China, becoming intimately acquainted with China's civil and military leaders, including Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, commandant of the Chinese army.

As leader of the World Service work of the Y. M. C. A., Barnett has traveled extensively throughout Europe and South America, learning at first hand the difficulties that beset young people of all lands.

"The basic problems of youth throughout the world are not much different from those facing American boys," he says. "In nearly every country, boys and young men are seeking recreation for their leisure hours, vocational training for a job, guidance in personal problems, and an outlet for their spiritual yearnings."

With three sons of his own, Barnett knows the trials and tribulations of helping them grow into useful citizens. His oldest son, Robert, a former Rhodes scholar at Oxford, is on the staff of the Institute of Pacific Relations, and is now in China on a special project. His second son, DeWitt, is a graduate of University of North Carolina. The third son, Doak, is studying at Yale University.

A native of Florida, Barnett is 52 years old. He is a graduate of Emory University, and has studied at Vanderbilt, Columbia, and the University of North Carolina. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Alpha Tau Omega.

The Old Timers Didn't HAVE to Go Draft-Dodging Once Was Legal

By SIGRID ARNE

AP Feature Service Writer

Washington—It was April, 1775.

New England trees were greening.

Men were plowing when they heard shots across Massachusetts hills. They rushed home, rammed gun-powder into their muzzles.

The Revolution was on.

Those men were answering this country's first conception of a draft. Not until 132 years later, in 1917, did we adopt the modern conscription plan for raising armies.

In the meantime we had fought five major wars. We had become pretty irritated with each other over the manner in which the armies were raised.

The old idea was that every able-bodied male would spring to the defense of his country. But history shows that volunteers were willing to shoot it out for their own barns, but didn't like tramping hundreds of miles to shoot it out for somebody else's barns.

Fought for Their Homes

Take the Revolution. The first shots at Lexington touched off a surge of patriotism. By the time Washington rode into Boston to take command he found 17,000 volunteers collected, in various and assorted uniforms. But later as he ranged back and forth across the colonies he had less and less support until by 1781, when he rushed to Yorktown, he had only 2,000 loyal troops. It's nobody's secret that the French at Yorktown saved the day, and incidentally, ended the war.

Why the depleted ranks? Because militia had two crutches: The men thought of themselves as local—very local—defenders, and they enlisted only for short periods, three months to a year. So Washington fought with a virtually new army each year.

He grew so bitter he wrote the Continental Congress, "I am sorry to mention the egregious want of public spirit. Such stock-jobbing I never saw before, and pray God's mercy I never witness again."

Finally Congress offered bounties to men to fight. First, $4; finally, as much as $250. Washington suggested they throw in 100 acres, a suit of clothes and a blanket.

After the war, Washington drew up a plan for raising armies requiring at least a year's military training for all young men. It would have meant 21,000 men training each year in his time and some 700,000 now. But the plan didn't go into effect until this year with the universal military training bill.

No Soldiers in 1812

Other curious events also took place during the interim.

In 1812 we fought the British, still with state militia. But it was difficult to convince a Virginia farmer he should leave his fields to help out a Massachusetts cobbler. And vice versa.

So when the British began their march on Washington, there were no troops across their line. Militia were scrambled together—4,400 men—just two days before the British reached Bladensburg, north of Washington. And when the untrained troops heard the first shots many disappeared into

IN WORLD WAR Secretary Newton D. Baker of war, headed drawing which called up three million men.

IN THE CIVIL WAR many joined up willingly when first draft summoned them.

Quality of Modern Violin Is Equal to 'Stradivarius'

A good $200 American violin may have as high a tone quality as a $50,000 instrument made by Antonio Stradivari 200 years ago, according to Dr. Frederick A. Saunders, Harvard university physicist.

The scientist proved his contention to his own satisfaction in a demonstration before 170 persons—including a number of prominent Philadelphia musicians and critics.

A violinist, behind a screen, played an instrument made in Philadelphia several months ago, another made in Germany six years ago and a third made by the Cremona master, Stradivari, some time before 1737. The audience was asked to tell which one was the Stradivarius.

Of the 170, 47 were correct; 123 wrong.

Dr. Saunders then explained his contention, based on eight years of searching for the "secret of Stradivari" with scientific measuring instruments, that the tone quality of a modern violin may equal that of a Strad, but added:

"The fine old instruments—the Strads and the Guarneris—require only half as much work to produce a good, clear tone. They are, therefore, more responsive—important to players working at the limit of their

the woods. The British marched right on and burned the capitol.

Came the war with Mexico in 1845. Gen. Winfield Scott had landed at Vera Cruz, marched into the interior, scattered the Mexican army, and taken 3,000 prisoners. But just then the quelling bell rang for some 4,000 American troops. They set out for home. Scott was bogged down in enemy territory for three months until new troops reached him.

In the Civil War we really began to fight with men who came on deck for three months to a year and then left just as they became familiar with the business end of a gun. So, in March, 1863, Congress passed a draft law. It was compulsory, but it left loopholes that raised hob.

One provision said that a drafted man could buy exemption for $300. That raised the cry, "It's the rich man's money and the poor man's blood."

Another said a drafted man could pay for a substitute. That mushroomed a queer business, "substitute brokers." For a price they would find men who would fight. Fees ran up to $250. New York papers carried ads for brokers who guaranteed to find 1,000 substitutes for $100 each.

"Substitutes" thought up a racket of their own. They would enlist in one state, collect the fee, and desert. The same stunt would be pulled in other states as quick as they could get there. These men were called "bounty jumpers." Many collected enough to buy farms.

Riots in New York

Resentment was running high by the time the draft in New York City started. When it was over such bloody riots had taken place that they stacked up with actual battles in the Civil war.

The draft started on schedule, July 11, 1863. But the next day, Sunday, crowds milled around saloons in lower Manhattan and by Monday morning a mob had formed to parade uptown. That afternoon a draft office on the upper East side was burned.

For four days the mob of 70,000, seething over the island's burning, killing, hanging. It stopped only when troops were recalled from the Pennsylvania battle fields. Between 300 and a thousand people were slain. Property damage ran up to $5,000,000.

From that time on America's military men knew that another draft must be spread evenly over the whole population.

But ANTI-DRAFTERS were strong, too, rioting for four days in New York.

abilities.

"But for the listener, there is no difference."

The physicist also scoffed at the contention that a violin may be ruined for one player if another musician uses it, and asserted that tests had exploded the theory that varnish determines the tonal quality of an instrument, explaining that it had been proved that there was little difference between a varnished violin and an unvarnished one.

Dr. Saunders said there was no support for the contention that a violin may be "broken in" in by playing "unless the invisible clouds of moisture that rise continually from our bodies tend to condition the instrument when it is played and to dehydrate it when it is idle."

The physicist admitted that Stradivari's secret still eludes him, even though his tests of the Italian master's instruments show they vary greatly in quality, but said he believed his research would result in better American violins.

This year about 285,000 acres of New York state wheat, potato, and vegetable land are in the adjustment phase of the AAA program. Commercial producers of these crops receive an adjustment payment for reducing acreage to their share of the national allotment for each of these crops.

Milwaukee—Two Sol Gollins, both living at the same address, complicated matters at a draft headquarters.

To avoid future confusion, board members wrote on the card of Sol Gollin No. 1 "Scar on right leg and tip of nose." On the card of Sol Gollin No. 2 they wrote "Scar on left eye, born in Russia." No. 1, brother-in-law of No. 2, was born in Milwaukee.

Wide-eyed, she dashed back to her aunt's room and cried: "There must have been a big accident, because I saw a whole family all in bed in one room."

Quality of Modern Violin Is Equal to 'Stradivarius'

A good $200 American violin may have as high a tone quality as a $50,000 instrument made by Antonio Stradivari 200 years ago, according to Dr. Frederick A. Saunders, Harvard university physicist.

The scientist proved his contention to his own satisfaction in a demonstration before 170 persons—including a number of prominent Philadelphia musicians and critics.

A violinist, behind a screen, played an instrument made in Philadelphia several months ago, another made in Germany six years ago and a third made by the Cremona master, Stradivari, some time before 1737. The audience was asked to tell which one was the Stradivarius.

Of the 170, 47 were correct; 123 wrong.

Dr. Saunders then explained his contention, based on eight years of searching for the "secret of Stradivari" with scientific measuring instruments, that the tone quality of a modern violin may equal that of a Strad, but added:

"The fine old instruments—the Strads and the Guarneris—require only half as much work to produce a good, clear tone. They are, therefore, more responsive—important to players working at the limit of their abilities.

"But for the listener, there is no difference."

The physicist also scoffed at the contention that a violin may be ruined for one player if another musician uses it, and asserted that tests had exploded the theory that varnish determines the tonal quality of an instrument, explaining that it had been proved that there was little difference between a varnished violin and an unvarnished one.

Dr. Saunders said there was no support for the contention that a violin may be "broken in" in by playing "unless the invisible clouds of moisture that rise continually from our bodies tend to condition the instrument when it is played and to dehydrate it when it is idle."

The physicist admitted that Stradivari's secret still eludes him, even though his tests of the Italian master's instruments show they vary greatly in quality, but said he believed his research would result in better American violins.

This year about 285,000 acres of New York state wheat, potato, and vegetable land are in the adjustment phase of the AAA program. Commercial producers of these crops receive an adjustment payment for reducing acreage to their share of the national allotment for each of these crops.

Chapter 34 Tara's Prisoner

TEMU glanced at the mouth from which those words came as if for a moment he contemplated some sort of sweet violence against it. "Some day, somebody's going to nip off the end of that sharp little tongue of yours if you don't reform."

She shrugged. "You see," she said, "we start out to play and we end up in a quarrel. There's no koddess in me."

He turned his pony aside to round a sharp outcrop of shale. "You can be mighty sweet when you want to be. You are the Tara. You look like the Tara."

"Perhaps I do look like the Tara," she admitted, and added angrily, "It is a coincidence that Sherdock took advantage of his princeling's want of a white horse and no adventuress. They looked me up and decided I'd do."

Temu's brows had drawn together. "You would make out everyone to be scheming and insincere."

She stared at him a moment, her lips parted. "You're right," she agreed suddenly. "That is the way I was taught to use my mind—to distrust everyone until he proves himself."

"You didn't distrust your half-brother?"

"And I was a fool. You see the trouble it brought upon me?"

"Do you still distrust me?"

"I distrust your loyalty to your Prince. A girl might forgive a man who goes to any length to win her for himself, but when he breaks all the laws to secure her for another man, it's not so complimentary."

Temu grinned. "I stand corrected."

Across the plain from the north appeared tiny moving specks on the landscape. Through the glasses they proved to be a splendidly mounted band of horsemen armed to the teeth.

"Chinese opium runners most likely," he said. "They follow the less frequented trails of hill and dale. Probably headed for Lannou."

A thrill of excitement went through Lynn. "Or they may be a party of Dick's men out looking for me."

Temu increased the pace of his lame horse. "I can see they are not, but still I wish to avoid them." Lynn hung back. He halted and called, "Come! Hurry!"

He took her time and when she caught up with him deliberately dismounted. "I don't want to hurry," she said.

He was out of his saddle in a flash and strode to her side. "Mount your horse at once, Lynn."

Instead she sat down on a convenient boulder. He caught hold of her upper arms and drew her to her feet. She went limp and would have fallen had he not supported her. He shook her a bit. "Shall I tie you to your horse?" he demanded.

"How long would it take?" she asked calmly, her eyes on the fast approaching cavalcade. Lynn was a tall girl, firmly built and well proportioned. He lifted her as lightly as if she were a dummy and fastened her to the saddle with a leather thong about her waist. Then he mounted his own horse, caught up her pony's reins, and made for the breaks of a deep canyon.

Hard Crossing

IT WAS one of the greatest chasms that Lynn had ever seen. On some of the more terrifying ledges she was glad to be tied to the saddle. In one particular place iron crowbars had been driven into the perpendicular, thousand-foot cliff, and on these cross-pieces, broad flat stones were placed.

Temu dismounted and led his horse across while Lynn watched with suspended breath. The animal trembled with fear, but there was some power in the man that compelled obedience. When it had almost completed the passage it stumbled. Lynn stifled a scream. Temu jumped back nimbly, escaping death by a hair's breadth, and somehow, drew the horse safely after him.

He came back to Lynn's side. A little sprinkle of golden-brown freckles stood out across the bridge of her nose. He regarded her pallor for a moment before he spoke.

"Don't be frightened, Tara Lynn. It is not in the stars that harm shall come to you on the desert road. Will you ride across or walk?"

"I'd rather fly," she said tremulously.

He smiled and unfastened the thong that bound her and had her dismount. He took one of her hands.

"To fly is not impossible." His hand on hers had power. Her consciousness lifted.

He drew her easily to the firm footing of solid ground on the farther side. She stood leaning against him a moment, breathing deep and slow, her eyes shut while he scrutinized the long lashes trembling against cheeks in which faint color pulsed. Then she stepped back and looked at him, a vague smile curving her lips.

"You must have hypnotized me," she said. He did not deny it. "All ideas are hypnotic. Cling to those that do not limit your powers."

SHOKAN

Shokan, Nov. 2—Mr. and Mrs. Ira Baker of Kingston were callers in Shokan Monday evening.

William Tuceling, who has been suffering from an infected hand and arm, is reported as getting along all right at a Kingston Hospital where he was taken for treatment last Saturday.

The rain of Wednesday failed to start the local brooks to running. Jesse Shurtler, well known Samsonville war veteran and lumberman, was a business caller here Thursday afternoon.

Christopher McGrath, who occasionally spends a vacation in Shokan, has enlisted in the Fighting 69th, U.S. 165th Infantry, and

Marriage of November 2, 1899, was that of Emma C. Robinson to Eddie Elliott, both of the town of Hurley. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Lewis F. Piper, pastor of the Shokan Reformed Church.

Mrs. C. A. Winchell and daughter, Alva, motored to Peekskill to attend the funeral services Saturday morning of William Knickerbocker, a nephew of Mrs. Winchell. The little boy, third son of Mr. and Mrs. George Knickerbocker, died as the result of burns received when he was pushed or fell into a bonfire.

Several local women attended the bridge playing and Home Bureau meeting at the residence of Mrs. Floyd Merrihew in Ashokan Wednesday afternoon. Members of the bureau elected officers as follows: Chairman, Mrs. Alonzo Davis; vice chairman, Mrs. Herman Weidner, and secretary and treasurer, Mrs. James Burgher. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and tea were served by Mrs. Merrihew. Another bureau meeting will take place at Mrs. Weidner's next Thursday, at which time the projects explained by Florence Tappan at Wednesday's session will come up for further discussion.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. North, popular mountain road couple, celebrated their 15th wedding anniversary on Friday, October 25. Mrs. North is the former Hilda Palen of Ashokan.

The Joseph Shlightner estate tract on the north boulevard has been sold by Mrs. Mary Moran and Mrs. Milla Lapo of Kingston to out-of-town residents. The new owners are reported to be planning the erection of a large brick house on the property which comprises 60 acres of wooded land overlooking the Ashokan Reservoir.

More than 100 persons enjoyed the Ladies Aid turkey supper in the Shokan Reformed Church basement Tuesday evening. The ladies cleared about $55.

Female voice (excitedly over the telephone)—Two boys are trying to break into my room through the window!

Reply—Listen, Lady, you've got the wrong number. This isn't the police headquarters, this is the fire department.

Female voice—I know, but my room is on the second floor and they need a ladder.

If we get out of the current we may find the back eddies and the quiet water pleasant but we do not make much progress.

Wife—Oh, come on. Do come to Mrs. Baker's with me, Tom. She'll make you feel so at home.

Husband—Then what's the use of going?

Some Fish for Trouble

Its queer how fishing does effect some couples; but I've seen 'em live happily for years and years—'til fishing came between 'em.

A truthful husband leaves at dawn, says he'll return at eight; The evening comes but, goodness me! The husband's very late.

"I'm so neglected!" cried the wife, "I should have wed another."

When he returns, 'bout three hours late, she's gone back home to mother.

He calls it sport; she says: "It should be listed with disgraces—A big man stickin' hurtie hooks in trustin' fishes faces!"

—Lyla Myers

Tommy—Did you have influenza as bad as I did? I had to stay away from school three weeks.

Junior—I had it much worse than that—I had it in the holidays.

Far be it from us to hint that one reason married members of the national guard will be permitted to resign and stay at home is that when a married man is away from home he's too busy having a good time to want to fight.

Call things by their full names: Rosalie (a first grader, walking with her mother, spoke to a small boy)—His name is Jimmy and he's in the first grade.

Mother—What's the little boy's last name?

Rosalie—His whole name is Jimmy Sitdown; that's what the teacher calls him.

One pleasant human customer is to remember only the good about people who are dead. Generally that was the most important thing about them.

The old chiseler limped painfully up to the bar and leaned against it in an attitude of dejection.

Sympathetic Friend—What's the matter? Have an accident?

Chiseler—No, I've just had an attack of yooors.

Sympathetic Friend (scratching his head)—What's yooors?

Chiseler—I'll have a straight whiskey, thanks.

A decent respect for the opinions of others is important but so is a decent respect for the opinion of ourselves.

Irishman (seeing a grapefruit for the first time)—Them's pretty big oranges, and it wouldn't take many of them to make a dozen.

Smith—After listening to the radio now for some years, my family decided to have a little orchestra of their own. My wife is learning to play the banjo. Junior is learning to play the flute. Ernest rather fancies himself as a jazz drummer, and Doris and Mildred are learning the violin.

Brown—And what are you learning?

Smith—I'm learning to bear it.

Even our faults grow dear to us through custom, so we should try to prevent the development of the custom.

Finland's "scorched earth" policy of burning everything before the advance of Russian troops and the problem of providing for 480,000 homeless refugees from the ceded Karelian Isthmus has presented an overwhelming problem for the Finnish Government. It was reported by Red Cross observers who have returned here.

I had occasion to go to my husband's office for the first time. When I entered I found that he had another man there. I excused myself and said I would come back later. But my husband said to come in, and he introduced his visitor to me, all the while remaining seated behind his desk. The visitor arose, of course, and I shook hands with him. I questioned the good manners of my husband in remaining seated, and he said that in offices and under all business situations it was not necessary for a man to get up for a lady, and certainly not for some one he saw as often as his own wife. But he is willing to stand by what you answer about this!

Answer: I have to agree with you that your husband's manners were very bad. I wonder whether he would have liked it had his visitor been equally ill-bred and remained seated while you stood. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Admiration For the Girl Who Understands Sports

Know the Rules and Scoring

A man admires the girl who enjoys and understands the sporting event they attend together. The wide-eyed damsel who thought a football coach had four wheels is as out of date as the one-horse shay.

Not that you need to be a talking sporting page. You have only to learn the fundamentals. And how your head's eyes light up when you show you know what's meant by a dead ball in football, a face-off in ice hockey, a free throw in basketball.

The ball is dead in football when it has rolled out of boundary lines. Play stops, the ball is taken back 10 yards inside the playing area and then play begins.

The face-off in ice hockey is the manner of opening play. Centers of the two teams meet in mid-ice, an official dropping the puck between them to start the play.

In basketball, a player gets a free throw when fouled. What's a foul? You can easily learn to recognize the offenses which count as fouls, not have to ask "why" when the referee's whistle blows. Our 32-page booklet by a noted sports writer makes clear the rules, scoring and play in football, basketball, hockey, baseball, boxing, tennis, golf, polo, soft ball. Explains horse racing, competitive swimming, rowing.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of SPECTATOR'S GUIDE TO POPULAR SPORTS to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Editor of Freeman:

Kindly print this poem in Monday's Freeman:

Tomorrow's the most important day in this free land. We must decide whether democracy shall fall or stand; Willie will keep us out of war, And freedom will ring forever from shore to shore.

Thanking you,

Ladies' Aid Meeting

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Dutch Church will meet Wednesday at 3 o'clock in the church house.

MODES of the MOMENT

If you could have only two new winter costumes, this would be a good choice for one of them. A city-country suit of brown and beige herringbone tweed, designed by B. H. Wragge. Shown here with a matching topcoat, and brown accessories—beaver toque, calfskin gloves, alligator bag and shoes. It would look fine with a cuffed fur top.

Jack Fallon Scores Twice as Maroon Eleven Beats Port, 12-0

Maroon Concludes Its Home Schedule With DUSO Win

Injured Benjamin Plays Backfield Well; Kingston Meets Highland Team on Armistice Day

Kingston High School's exit as far as home football is concerned was made Saturday afternoon at Municipal stadium when the Maroon and White gridders chalked up their first DUSO League victory over Port Jervis by 12 to 0. The gridiron, swept by continuous rains, made the playing conditions very difficult.

Once again it was the "meal-ticket" of Kingston, Jack Fallon, doing the brunt of the attack for the win. Fallon tallied both touchdowns, despite his bad leg and managed to keep his teammates in a winning mood. Due to the poor football conditions only a small turnout of about 600 spectators were in the stands to bid farewell to the local men.

While Fallon sparked the boys of Coach Tommy Weems the Port Jervis team was led in a losing cause by Jimmie Quinn, a star in his own way who could have caused plenty of damage had he been working with a better defense.

Locals Score Early

Kingston didn't waste much time in taking the driver's seat in the opening stanza. After Port returned the opening kickoff to the 50-yard line, the Maroon and White representatives unceremoniously drove to the Port pay-off territory. Fallon finally sneaked over for the score from the one-yard marker. Hoffman's attempt for the conversion missed the goal.

Port's unsteady defense was ripped apart by Joe Benjamine and Jack Fallon who dashed their way unceasingly through the forward wall defense. Benjamin, watching his backfield mate go over for the count, stood out with his expert blocking.

Early in the third quarter Kingston struck again, this time Jack Fallon scampering 33 yards for the second and final touchdown. Kingston took possession of the pigskin on the visitors' 35. Benjamin, still coveting around with his bad leg, went off tackle for the yard to the 33. Fallon then sliced off tackle for his touchdown run to the chalkline.

Down but not out Port Jervis attempted to regain a shot at Kingston in the late minutes of the closing period. A sustained drive by Port found the ball on the Maroon 25. Here Billy Ball rushed in to intercept a pass and the rally was halted. A few minutes later Port struck again, this time to the 12. Again Kingston failed to yield any noticeable ground and Port's power drives were stopped cold.

Hitler Peace Bid May, if True, Show England Unbeaten

that J. Bull is too ample of birth and too worldly-wise to play the part of little Miss Ridinghood. That is to say, the English don't trust Herr Hitler's word.

Only a fortnight ago British Premier Churchill declared this as his country's war-aim:

"We seek to beat the life and soul out of Hitler and Hitlerism—that alone."

Hitler and Hitlerism are the same thing. Hitlerism is a one-man show—and Hitler is it. We therefore have the unusual, though not unique, circumstance of an empire engaging in combat to a struggle between Hitler and the British empire. One or the other is going to disappear from the picture.

Anyway, while England has a tough row to hoe, the going just now seems to me to be considerably more promising than it was a while back. Making predictions in this mad war is like crossing Niagara Falls on a tight-rope, but I venture to say it's far from sure that Mussolini didn't confer a great boon on Britain when he lashed out at Greece.

The great object of the Roman assault, presumably was to secure air and naval bases, especially on the strategic islands which form a gateway across the Aegean Sea. These would be vital to any Axis attempt to force the Dardanelles.

However, instead of achieving a blitzkrieg, as they expected, the Fascists have tossed priceless bases into England's lap, thereby going a long way towards nullifying their efforts. The biggest news of today's operations is the British official confirmation that they have occupied the island of Crete.

That great island, with its fine anchorage for warships and ample space for air-fields, is a priceless gift for England. She couldn't occupy this, and other islands, while Greece was still neutral.

Crete, apart from other Greek bases which Britain, presumably has occupied, provides a base from which she can strike in all directions in the eastern Mediterranean. It affords protection for Greece, for Turkey, for the all-important Dardanelles that bars the Axis from the Near East, and for the great Greek port and rail-head of Salonika, which the Italians hope to capture. It at last gives the Royal Air Force an air base close to Italy so that bombing operations can be opened up on a large scale—as witness the first raid of the war on Naples.

Crete also is a stout guardian for Egypt and the Suez Canal, and it is close to Mussolini's lines of communication with his army which is trying to invade Greece.

On the whole, if the Axis powers are planning an assault on the Dardanelles, Italy couldn't have offered the British a better defensive set-up. Now if England can make capital out of this situation she may win the active support of Russia and Turkey. Meanwhile, Hitler is straining every nerve to pull these countries into his camp, and success would be a sad blow to Britain.

Barton Victory Is Seen by Dunn

Survey Says Republican Will Get 52 Per Cent of Ballot

Rogers Dunn, whose Dunn Surveys have an almost perfect record for absolute accuracy in New York State Elections have today reported to the New York State Republican Committee that the election of Bruce Barton to the United States Senate is assured. He stated that Mr. Barton would receive not less than 52 per cent of the vote.

This indicates a plurality of about 250,000.

As far back as July, 1939, Mr. Dunn, investigating the political situation in this state, predicted that Mr. Barton would be the Republican senatorial nominee because he was the one man in the state whose strength would be recognized as sufficient to carry him through to victory. On the assumption that Mr. Barton would be the nominee, Dunn made a survey at that time which indicated that Barton, if he ran, would get 52 per cent of the votes.

In December 1939 a check survey was made and the Dunn Survey published that Bruce Barton would be elected the next United States senator from New York.

Mr. Dunn said today that Mr. Barton's vote, based entirely upon his own strength, would bring him not less than 52 per cent of the popular vote; but the unexpected strength of Mr. Willkie in this state would unquestionably prove a factor in making this plurality even larger.

In the senatorial election of 1938 Mr. Dunn predicted that Senator Wagner would get 55 per cent of the vote. Senator Wagner received exactly 55 per cent. In the gubernatorial elections last year, he claimed 50.3 per cent of the votes for Governor Lehman, who actually received 50.7 per cent.

WILLKIE GREETED AFTER CHURCH SERVICES

Wendell L. Willkie, hat in hand, is greeted by admirers as he and his wife leave the Church of the Heavenly Rest on New York's Fifth avenue. Behind Mrs. Willkie is Ed Willkie, brother of the G. O. P. Presidential candidate. Willkie rested at home after his speech in New York the night before, the last major talk of his campaign.

Willkie Proposes New Amendment Survey Is Made in Saugerties For Possible Airplane Plant

Government Engineers Study Beeres Estate; Factory Would Give Work to 3,000 —or even put it together in a speech—if he follows generalizations about unity by manufacturing discord.

"Unity is not achieved by classifying as an evil force the millions of people who now support me. He further promotes discord by classifying among the evil forces, the leaders of labor, agriculture and industry, the former members of his administration and the millions who equally oppose war or any other road to dictatorship, such as the third term."

Will Keep His Faith
Declaring that he himself has faith in the great mass of American people, Willkie said that whatever the election result, he would keep that faith and would not "number imagined evil men by the millions."

He expressed the hope that President Roosevelt "will renounce this distrust of the people of America after his defeat next Tuesday," and added:

"Such renunciation should be in more explicit terms than was his reference (Saturday night) to a fourth term."

"All of us recall that nearly four years ago, on February 28, 1937, he talked then of the time when he would leave the White House in January, 1941. But now he talks of leaving the White House at some subsequent and more remote date and of the condition in which he hopes to leave the country then."

"I view of the fact that within three months of his first assumption of power he broke the pledges which he had called 'solemn covenants with the people' the fate of a renunciation of a fourth term based only on implications and in-direction is certain."

Willkie said the President's Saturday speech served "one good purpose" because, "although in obscure language, he makes a reference to at least one issue of this year's campaign."

Willkie made his last public campaign appearance Saturday night before a crowd which packed Madison Square Garden. He was given an 11-minute ovation upon arriving with his wife, and had to pause frequently in his address when the audience started chanting "we want Willkie."

Three Traffic Law Violations Charged

John LeRoy, 19, of Milton, charged with three violations of the Traffic and Vehicle Law, following an accident of the river road at Highland late Saturday afternoon, was sentenced to 45 days in the Ulster county jail, in default of fines aggregating $45, when arraigned before Justice Walter Seaman.

Sergeant Hulse, who with Trooper Benson arrested LeRoy a couple of hours after the accident said that he was driving on the wrong side of the road when on one of the sharp curves his car crashed almost head-on into a car driven by Manley Kirk of Westkill, N. Y. Both cars were damaged in front and Mrs. Kirk received abrasions on both knees.

The officer said that LeRoy left his car and ran off, but was picked up later down by the river. Justice Seaman fined LeRoy $20 for leaving the scene of an accident, $15 for reckless driving and $10 for being an unlicensed driver.

Jansen Fowler, Kingston attorney and Democratic-A.L.P. candidate for Member of Assembly, suggests that it could be used advantageously as a recreational center for the people of the County of Ulster, with facilities for swimming, boating and fishing. He urges its development as a state recreational area under the Conservation Law, reserving to the City of Kingston the right to use water therefrom in the event of an emergency.
